Description

Important rectangular table in carved and molded mahogany in the Chippendale style. This original table rests on four cabriole legs in solid mahogany, ending in a ball enclosed in stylized claws. The hump top is carved with rosettes and acanthus leaves. This table is crowned with a solid mahogany top with ends in the shape of basket handles. Note the presence of a corbin's beak periphery with groove molding below. This top consists of two exterior elements of a single board and two semi-fixed extensions of a single board as well. The low mahogany veneer belt has a large molding at the bottom. Elegant and refined in the pure English tradition, this table with its soft shapes will seduce you with its large size which can accommodate up to 12 people.  Period: Early 20th century Removable
