Description

Pair of bronze candelabras with green and brown patinas from the Restoration period. They consist of cylindrical barrels, with rudent fluting, and decorated in the lower parts with patterns of petals, leaves and flowers. These barrels, underlined with golden collars, are surmounted by bobèches with drooping leaves and streaks. The base consists of three claw feet, style "Return from Egypt", and delicately chiselled, resting on a base with three concave sides. These candlesticks will seduce you with their large size and will bring presence to your table.

Period: Early 19th century
