Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Description

Exceptional piece of furniture in blackened wood of very high quality. Porcelain cartouches painted in the lower doors. The door on the right reveals a curious compartmentalization intended to receive mysterious objects. We first thought of cigars but that seems unlikely. The doors are lined in magnifying glass. The cartridge on the pediment suggests that its origin is Italian. Studio meaning Studies. The quality of the furniture is that of a great cabinetmaker. The showcase part is mahogany inside. A molding is missing on a door top. The piece of furniture is in very good condition and has no insect bites. Its dimensions: 280 high, 160 wide and 60 deep.
