Description

Rare architect's drawing dating from the 1930s presenting a fresco project for a town hall. The composition is divided into three parts: the upper part is a watercolor representing a monument in the landscape. The central part is a podium on which the upper part described above would rest, with a sense of volumes and figures directly identified with Art Deco representations. The lower part includes the title and the scale of representations and the architecture of the place for which the fresco is presumably proposed. Further research is to be carried out around the place and the artist. Dimensions: 61 cm high, 47 cm wide.
