

Earthenware Basin From La Rochelle, 18th Century

290 EUR

Period : 18th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Earthenware

Length : 26,5cm

Width : 22,5cm

Height : 11,5cm

Description

Earthenware basin often called a planter, hexagonal in shape, with two applied side handles simply decorated with blue pellets. The basin itself is finely decorated with flowers in a garland and the red of great fire is as usual at that time in relief. On the side a decoration of small ferns. This piece has a rustic but elegant charm, in very good condition, which is rare for a usual object. We can note a chipped foot as well as small wear on the bottom.
