Description

Bookcase in Veneered Speckled Mahogany, opening with a drawer and two doors. The latter are composed of Windows in the upper two thirds, and solid panels in the lower part. Each of these elements is underlined by a molded solid mahogany stick forming a frame. A similar ornament acts as a central joint cover. The interior is lined with four solid shelves, 31 cm deep. They are in Oak, with the exception of their songs which are in Mahogany worked in double half rounds. They are placed on racks and therefore adjustable as desired over the entire available storage height. This space is locked since the right door is equipped with a brass lock with high and low hook points. The furniture is supplied with its key. This Library is crowned by a Cornice with multiple mouldings. Its front uprights are canted, right up to the wide Plinth on which the whole rests. In it is concealed a large drawer 10 cm deep. The top, the back and the bottom of the cabinet are in Oak. It should be noted that this property is completely removable, by a simple system of reminder screws. We will choose this Glass Bookcase for its reasonable dimensions, its pretty designs formed by the knots of its Mahogany or for the practicality of its assembly. We will also like this subtle mixture of Sobriety and Character, which we owe to the presence of pronounced Moldings.  Period: Late 19th century Perfect condition after restoration in our workshop.
