Description

Pair of photoengravings around 1890, framed and under glass, by painter Marcus Stone (1840-1921) of two elegant women representing spring and summer seasons, each carrying baskets of flowers. Signature lower left Marcus Stone. Height 30,7" - Without frame : 22,0" Width: 14,6" - Without frame : 6,7" Good condition, some wear. The works of Marcus Stone are contemporary witnesses of the Victorian era in Great Britain. His literary illustrations and the reproductions of his paintings were already in great demand during his lifetime, making Stone a wealthy man. His paintings can be seen today in major museums such as the Manchester Art Gallery in Yorkshire, the Tate Gallery in London and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New

York." © Meisterdrucke
