Description

We can read on the Patek Philippe website: "The perfect balance" An elliptical case, at the crossroads of the circle and the rectangle. A blue gold dial, with magical reflections, punctuated by fine indexes and hands. When it made its appearance in 1968, the Ellipse d'Or stood out resolutely from traditional timepieces. but far from fleeting fashions, this watch with its unprecedented geometry was distinguished by its proportions that were particularly pleasing to the eye. its design is inspired by the principle of the ancient "golden number", this "divine proportion" (based on the ratio of magnitude 1/1.6181) discovered by Greek mathematicians, which was origin of some of the greatest architectural and artistic works of humanity. First hand watch. New battery. Good working condition. Wrist
