Description

Elegant Mahogany sliding curtain filing cabinet topped with brass fillets. Mid-nineteenth century period This small storage cabinet is ideally positioned on a desk. It opens with a sliding curtain made up of small slats. When opened, the curtain reveals 4 horizontal storage spaces. In the lower part, a drawer with brass nets with its lock provided with a key, and in the upper part on the right, a small compartmentalized drawer for the storage of pencils. During the restoration, at the bottom of the drawer, we found a handwritten note dated November 1919.
