Description

Drawing on paper representing a landscape in the Drôme, by Guy Marandet, French painter, student and friend of André Lhote. Signed and dated 1942 lower right. Good condition. Size: 32.5 x 25cm. Guy Marandet was born in Paris in 1917, in the Marais district. His father, Maurice Marandet, was a goldsmith designer. He was a licensed professor of Art Drawing in the schools of the City of Paris and in the Paris region. After several regular stays in Mirmande in André Lhote's house, he acquired "La Grande Maison" in 1953, a ruined building which he tirelessly restored during thirty years of vacation. As soon as he retired, he settled permanently in Mirmande, training several of his students, painters, engravers or sculptors, who settled in the region. Guy Marandet leaves a rich oeuvre of
