Description

Amazing Sculpture of Wolf Dogs in Polychrome Terracotta - 19th Century
Superb pair of polychrome heads representing two wolf dogs of great finesse. The realism is striking: each head is finely sculpted and adorned with glass eyes, giving a lively and expressive look. The dogs hold in their mouth a metal branch with an old bronze patina, which could serve as a bridle holder, leash or even a coat rack or any other decorative use. Period mounted on oval black lacquered wooden bases, covered with period green velvet fabric.
Quality of Production: Exceptional, every detail is worked with care. they have a beautiful authentic patina.
Condition: Very good general condition. Note, a discreet repair on the end of a metal branch, without aesthetic impact or on solidity. Dimensions:                   Width: 53 cm
