

Native American Ethnographic Sculpture

210 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : En l'état

Diameter : 14

Height : 28

Description

Ethnographic sculpture representing an Indian from the Sierra according to the mention made at the base of the base. Probably dating from the end of the 18th or the beginning of the 19th century, it was probably a piece intended to enter cabinets of curiosities. Accidents are to be reported, in particular the absence of the left hand and a restoration at the attachment of the left arm.
