Description

Study of a poster for the 1918 armistice by Jeanne Jégou-Cadart Coq overlooking Paris from Notre-Dame in front of the flags of the victorious missions.

Jeanne Jégou-Cadart is a forgotten artist from the beginning of the 20th century. Little has come down to us about her life, but we do know that she shared it between Paris and Kernouës in Brittany. The artist nevertheless exhibited at the Devambez gallery in 1917, and many of his works and studies are kept at the Carnavalet museum. His symbolist work, filled with sweetness and poetry, recalls that of Charles Lacoste.
