Elchinger Céramiques
Elchinger is a family business that Wendelin Elchinger (1809-1895) founded in 1834 in Soufflenheim (Alsace). The production was initially dedicated to culinary pottery. Fernand Elchinger (1911-1975) developed and modernized the factory and installed the first continuous-fire electric oven there. Driven by the enthusiasm for Vallauris ceramics, the Alsatian factory enjoyed a strong reputation with the production in the 1950s of vases and pitchers
