Description

Splendid icon representing Saint George slaying the dragon -- symbol of the victory of good over evil.

It dates from the 19th century -- around 1840 -- and comes from Greece.

This work is characterized by the strength and dynamism of its composition.

Saint George is represented as a warrior wearing flamboyant armor and riding a white steed.

The icon is painted in tempera in warm tones on a wooden panel entirely and richly covered with gold leaf.

Very good general state of preservation. Some small wear of time and cracks

It is sold with its certificate of authenticity and a complete description of the work.

Dimensions: 38 cm (H) by 28 cm (W)
