Description

Empire period chandelier. The decor alone reveals the art of pageantry under Napoleon I. We find: the crown and the laurel leaf, the openwork palmette, the acanthus leaf, the swan, the caps, the gadroons, the rosette, the feathers of maât, and of course the eagle posing on the dome. The work of the bronzier is valued by the finesse and the cutting of the chasing. The green lacquer cupolas and baccarat teardrop glassware contrast and add a little more to the whole. Rare and complete piece. Revised electricity. Possible delivery not included in the price
