Description

Engraving made in the 1900s, representing a man and a woman, holding a birdcage in their hands, in a gilded and carved wooden frame.

The scene takes place in a garden.

The woman, seated, is dressed in a white and pink dress.

The man, standing right next to her, looks at her.

He wears blue clothing.

A bird sits on his hand.

Behind them is a fountain and an upright decorated with flowers.

The engraving is very detailed. The inscription at the bottom of the engraving "L'heure du Berger" signifies the time of day during which night falls.

It is at this time if the lovers meet.
