Description

Beautiful blackened oak cabinet in two parts. The upper part is made up of 7 drawers and a small door opening onto an ivory or ivory character (I don't think this character is from the 19th century!!) All the drawers are inlaid with mother-of-pearl flowers and the wood is carved and for the door this one has an ivory inlay drawing a mythological scene. This cabinet has 4 columns on each side with inlays of mother-of-pearl and carved flowers as well as on the sides of the cabinet. The lower part is composed of 4 columns on each side, the bottom is full and it is carved more simply. Everything is in good condition.
