Description

AUBUSSON

Tapestry representing a pastoral scene, where, in the foreground, the shepherdesses allow themselves to be courted by a gentleman, during a picnic, while another watches over her sheep, her stick in her hand.

In the background, stands the decor of the castle, and its garden in perspective, lined with trees from side to side.

This tapestry is framed by a border of flowers and ribbons in orange-red tones.

Epoque 18th century
