Description

19th century dressing table, Louis XV style in rosewood and violet wood veneer with inlaid decoration of scalloped reserves and curling in butterfly wings. Curved on all sides, the top opens with three flaps revealing a mirror in the center and storage spaces on the outside. It opens on the front with four drawers of different sizes as well as a zipper in the center lined with brown morocco. A few fake trompe-oeil drawers adorn this facade supported by four arched legs adorned at their ends with ornaments in gilded bronze with foliage motifs. Very nice proportions...
