Description

SUPERB oil / canvas board from the Sennelier house of Edouard Fer representing a standing nude from the back, signed in red at the bottom right + countersigned and marked on the back Wednesday, June 17th. Size without frame 22x16cm It is indeed a very beautiful Fauve divisionist composition by Edouard Fer, made around 1907/1910 which therefore represents a naked woman standing from the back. Faithful to its concepts, Fer employs a very divided touch and a lively and colorful palette made of soft greens, blue, pink, bright yellow, a very emblematic work of Fer and of course lessons from Seurat and Signac. Edouard Fer was therefore one of the most famous painters of Nice at the beginning of the 20th century, he developed the principles of neo-impressionism like Seurat,

Signac, Cross or Valtat, with whom he rubbed shoulders with some. His favorite field will be his favorite city, Nice, but he will also produce superb portraits, nudes or still lifes, but also posters and finally he will even write a book "Solfège de la couleurs" which will be a reference in the world. paint. Like any good self-respecting neo-impressionist, his works of divided invoices are the most popular with amateurs, especially since they are rather rare on the market and some achieve very very good results in sales. This work is in perfect original condition, delivered for the moment without frame. Authentic guarantee
