Description

Description:
White opaline, painted and gilded.
These large vases with the perfect shape of simplicity have a sky blue background on the base and neck. Two matte black rings with gold threads delimit these blue parts.
The central body is the color of the opaline (white), decorated with three mascarons presenting dog heads. This unusual subject indicates an order, the dog heads representing real dogs that their mistress or master wanted to immortalize.

the perfection of the shape is one of the most complex works in manual glassmaking because the slightest imperfection of the curves would be noticed. These vases have kept the label of the store in which they were presented. Opaline objects were very successful throughout the 19th century, with manufacturers offering the most varied shapes and often glassmaking feats like our vases.

Condition: Slight wear of the gold thread on the lower edge, opaline intact. Dimensions: Height: 35 cm, base diameter: 16.5 cm, top diameter: 21.5 cm.
