Description

Wonderful little oil on panel presenting the banks of Bordeaux around 1920-30. By a little-known artist who has represented other French ports, the work is signed Fabioli. It presents an interesting range of colors where the sails resonate with the tiles of the buildings of the white city. Probably at the Cailhau gate. The work measures 17 cm in length and 12 cm in height. Its original frame is not in excellent condition.
