Description

Description:White marble, chiseled gilded bronze.These very elegant candelabra are made up of a vase decorated with swirling grooves in strigil bearing the lights. The bouquet of the four naturalistic fires is drawn in branches of roses bearing the binet in pink and numerous buttons along the arms.The square base surrounded by a pearl bears the fluted pedestal. The design of the vase is excellent, very inspired by antique strigil vases, with details such as a projection of the grooves at the shoulder of the vase.Note that the rotation of the strigils is reversed from one vase to another, which further enriches the charm and balance of these lights. In the 19th century, but rarely, lights like these were made, with an original, audacious and uninterpreted design, entirely worthy of a haberdasher.In addition to
