Description

Sumptuous showcase in Rio rosewood, rosewood and sycamore veneer, attributed to the famous French designer Jules Leleu (1883 - 1961). In the upper part, this piece of furniture has a showcase with two sliding glass doors, embellished with tabs on each side. The interior is composed of two shelves, also in glass, adjustable on three points. The bottom as well as the back are dressed in mirrors and the sides are in sycamore. In the lower part, we find two eventful doors framing a high curved drawer. The whole has a marquetry on the front consisting of a frame of two lemon tree nets, with movement, and a large diamond with violet wood, inlaid with a plant composition of flowers and foliage. The doors have original locks and keys in perfect working order. Upon opening, we discover a sycamore interior
