his passion for drawing, in an unstructured and non-academic way.

For 25 years, Andolsi Fethi has been perfecting his pictorial technique and more particularly watercolour, as he likes to remind Cézanne to say...
"Watercolor is the path to painting."

He likes to feel in the current of contemporary abstract figurative and wishes through his work to express culture and everyday life.

Each of his paintings expresses a part of his reality: the streets of old Tunis, the busy streets of southern Tunisia, the streets of Old Nice, the Medina and Corsica.
