Description

Beautiful and large proof in bronze with brown and gold patina signed Charles B., provided with a base in black sandblasted marble and representing Cupid with outstretched wings. God of Love in Roman mythology, Cupid represented as a child with a youthful face and curly hair, a pair of wings reminiscent of the figure of an angel on his back. He carries his quiver filled with arrows at his waist and his bow in his left hand, instruments supposed to illustrate the points of desire that he plants in the hearts of men. Her wings, sheers, bow, quiver, and arrows are gilded, accentuating her appeal and showcasing the bronze overall. Poetic and large, this magnificent bronze of Love will awaken your sensitivity, while marking your decoration with the meticulousness of its realization and its
