Description

Beautiful kerosene lamps dating from the Napoleon III period, made of Japanese porcelain and embellished with bronze. These lamps with Asian decorations, representing scenes of life at the court of the emperor, are painted with multicolored flowers and butterflies. The intense tones are enhanced for some with gold threads. The lamps are also characterized by their curved shape thinned in the center. They are surmounted by an original Napoleon III globe in matt white glass underlined with engravings in the Greco-Roman style. One of these spheres has glued shards. Particularly attractive in their shapes and colours, these two kerosene lamps will adorn your interior with taste.  Period: Mid 19th century State of use. A broken globe glued back together. Shipping with careful packaging
