Description

Bas-relief in bronze enhanced with gold and silver. It features a young mandolin player dressed in an oriental costume. The features of his face, his roundness as well as his hair are modeled according to a Western type. Very nice work and great finesse of the details, especially in the aspect of the embroidery of his costume. The bas-relief is attached to a dark wooden board. The work includes a hook on the back to fix it to the wall. ears swelling of the wood on the reverse.
