Description

Art Deco period sideboard in solid rosewood and amaranth veneer, topped with restored veined breccia marble. This piece of furniture with an original shape has three drawers on the front with rosewood veneer with deep veining and iron pull handles. Below, a central door benefits from a rosewood veneer arranged in an open book underlined with a stained wood fillet. This door is embellished with an original lock in perfect working order and a chiselled entrance. Two large open spaces are present on each side. The solid amaranth legs have wide grooves and end in a ball. A carefully restored piece of furniture that will seduce you with its unusual lines and ornamentation.  Period: 1930 Excellent interior and exterior condition after restoration in our workshop.
