Description

This sculpture of Saint Bishop is a work of the XVth. We distinguish the folds of his long garment and the pronounced collar.

His face, slender and slender, is framed by hair sculpted in strands revealing the ears, surmounted by the miter. In his left hand, he holds the crozier.

Formerly polychrome, its current raw wood highlights it and the non-obstructing gaps attest to its age.

Presented to be hung on the wall, it brings a very original decorative aspect. In good condition with lacks and accidents due to the centuries
