European galleries and has been exhibited in Luxembourg, France and the Netherlands.
The melancholy that emanates from his work invites introspection, and it is a celebration of life: "Painting elevates me, it allows me to extract myself and reach a higher reality, to connect to the invisible, to something beyond us". His works are mysterious, dreamlike, sometimes on a colored background, sometimes on a white background. If the feminine is his favorite subject, he never tells the same story. His muses are sometimes hesitant, other times pensive or provocative, and always sweet or melancholy...
