

The Minerva From The Treasure Of Hildesheim End Of The XIX Eme Century

2 450 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Bronze

Length : 35 cm

Width : 34 cm

Description

Athena or Minerva Throne, Bronze In High Relief In Its Marble Frame, Beginning Of The XIX Eme Century, according to the treasure of Hildesheim discovered in 1868 exhibited in Pergamon.

Rare representation in bronze of the goddess Athena (Minerva) enthroned in majesty in its original frame in Yellow marble from Siena on a peach blossom marble.

the bronze medallion in high relief represents the seated goddess wearing a helmet and holding her shield.

This bronze is directly inspired by representations of the goddess in antiquity.

the details are very finely executed and this bronze has very beautiful remains of gilding.
the medallion is fixed on its original frame in

Dealer

Antoine Claeys - Maison du XVème
antiquaire généraliste

Mobile : 06 85 53 27 42

24 grande Rue

Nogent l'Artaud 02 310

yellow Siena marble mounted with a miter cut, itself fixed on a peach blossom marble base. a beautiful bronze fixing ring completes the set and thus allows serious hanging because the set is very heavy.

A very beautiful work from the end of the 19th century.

dimensions:

34 cm by 35 cm for the frame with a thickness of only 4 cm for the frame.

17 cm for bronze with a thickness of more than 3 cm.

we deliver and ship anywhere in the world, please contact us for a precise quote.