Description

These rugs are hand-knotted in workshops in the city of Nain in central Iran, near Isfahan.

They are usually very light with an off-white or dark blue base color encrusted with a central medallion.

Their high knot density and the highest quality materials make them luxury rugs.

They are made in most sizes and are among the finest rugs in the world, highly sought after by collectors.

They contain elements of silk, and the 6La denomination means that three pairs of yarns have been used for each warp yarn.

The wool used is called "kork" of high quality.

This rug is signed in the cartridge "Habibian"

The name of the master weaver, along with the origin of the rug, can serve as a kind of trademark that allows conclusions to be drawn about the level of expertise and the rarity of the rug. Persian rugs made by particularly well-known and skilled masters have become hard-to-obtain collectors' items, such as this one from the 1950s.

Size : 270x160 cm

Condition : Good condition, color difference in the off-white on the upper part according to the direction of the carpet. Shortened bangs.

The rug has been professionally washed
