Description

Very beautiful oil on canvas by Victor Gilbert (1847-1935) representing a genre scene in a market. Witness of his time, Victor Gilbert is interested in the workers of Les Halles, in the markets of Paris, but also in the provinces. In the foreground, we see a saleswoman behind her workbench and a customer. In the background, the rest of the market. Its depiction of butchered oxen also testifies to the harshness of daily life. streets, cafes, markets, in particular that of Halls. He obtained a second class medal at the Salon of 1880 and a silver medal at the Universal Exhibition of 1889. He became a member of the Society of French Artists. His work became popular in the 1880s, due to the fact that Goupil & Cie, a large producer of prints, translated his canvases into photo-engraved "chromos", and distributed them everywhere. Victor Gilbert was named Knight of the Legion of Honor in 1897, and received the Léon Bonnat Prize in 1926.
