Description

We present this pretty shaped piece in polychrome China porcelain, representing a seated male figure and he is holding a utensil on his head. A very harmonious mixture of colors was chosen during the manufacture of this object which seems relatively old to us. If it dates from the 19th century then we think it is early in the 19th century. This porcelain rests on a small gilt bronze base enhanced by ball feet. Very good state of conservation. (E23)
