Description

Very functional with its retractable extension, the top slides on the side crosspieces and discovers a housing with the extension which tilts on an axis. It is stowed away and hidden under the top and of the same finish as this one, there are two additional service extensions which were added later, this allows the table to be extended up to 240cm. The connection of the pieteo on the crosspieces shows a remarkable design, the design of the top in parquet-type slats makes it possible to conceal the connections of the tops for the extensions. Made of elm by Maison Regain in Alsace, this well-designed collection found its inspiration in the style of Pierre Chapo. Circa 1970. Elm blonde patina.
