Description

Beautiful watercolor by the Norman painter Yvonne Guégan. The painting represents a Scandinavian landscape: probably a Swedish fjord, which would indicate a date of realization around 1949, the year she exhibited in Sweden. This work shows an evolution in Yvonne Guégan's way of painting. Indeed, color begins to take more and more space in her painting, unlike the very dark paintings of the period of the 2nd World War and the sudden bombardments in Caen where her family and herself will lose everything. Well highlighted by a white passe-partout and a sober frame in natural wood, this watercolor will easily find its place in your interior. Dimensions of the view: 44 x 36.5 cm
