Description

Important ceremonial console buffet in mahogany with inlaid ebony fillets and gray veined white Carrara marble tops. The side parts are rounded and serve as presentation spaces; they are set with a mirrored background, an openwork bronze gallery surrounds the shelf and the quarter-round tops are also set with marble. Azure brass plates adorn the belt, drooping bronze handles, the round feet are finished with a bronze shoe. The piece of furniture with its fluted uprights and candles is in the Louis XVI style and of a very good quality of manufacture dating from the beginning of the 20th century. It opens with two doors and two drawers, the visible parts are in veined mahogany, the interior and the bottoms and backs are in oak and country wood. Furniture of high cabinetmaking for a spectacular
