Description

Welcome to the enchanting world of a spectacular Napoleon III gilded bronze fireplace garniture. This exceptional piece embodies the refinement and elegance characteristic of the Napoleon III era.

At the heart of this garniture stands a majestic clock, creating an immediate focal point that captures the eye. Measuring 65 cm in height, this clock seamlessly combines artistic design and horological precision. Its gilded bronze case is intricately crafted in the rocaille style, a hallmark of the 19th century, featuring organic curves, delicate volutes, and motifs inspired by nature. The centerpiece of the clock undoubtedly lies with the two winged cherubs, also known as putti, gracefully dancing on either side of the dial. Their delicate forms and angelic faces showcase the artistic mastery of the era. These putti embody both innocence and vivacity, adding a charming touch to the ensemble.

The clock dial serves as a window to time, with finely chiseled hands seemingly following the dance of hours and minutes. Every detail, from the elegantly engraved Roman numerals to the floral ornaments, speaks to the meticulous attention given to each aspect of design.

The golden patina of the bronze adds a touch of luxury and warmth, capturing light in an entrancing manner that illuminates its surroundings.

This Napoleon III gilded bronze fireplace garniture is more than just a decorative piece; it is a true work of art that embodies the aesthetics and craftsmanship of its era. It will undoubtedly capture the attention of discerning connoisseurs and passionate collectors alike.

Note: A neatly resoldered arm of light and the cracked rear window.
