Description

Superb and large basket of winnowing said van early twentieth. The van is an agricultural tool that farmers use to clean cereals, to "winnow" them. It is a very flat and wide basket used to separate straw, chaff and dust from the good grain by projecting them into the air with an alert gesture to offer the lightest parts to the wind to eliminate. This one is composed of 2 wrists of maintenance, it remained for a usual object in very good state of conservation. Beautiful collector's item that can also be used as decoration.
