Description

Splendid crumpled paper under glass by the painter artist Ladislav Kijno born in Warsaw (Poland) in 1921 and died in 2012 in St Germain en laye. Considered an emblematic figure of informal painting. Known for his development in the 1940s of the vaporization technique, paper crumpling, and crumpled canvas. Technique giving relief to his compositions, a recognizable element of his work. The child says he is born wrinkled. The adolescent becomes smooth, and the old man dies crumpled. Most of his paintings are kept in international museums and private collectors. Here work representative of his crumpling work with free and powerful colors. Signature lower left. With a beautiful framing there highlighting. Format of 54x46 cm with and 53x35 cm without.
