Description

Rare Empire mahogany console with winged griffins. It rests on straight mahogany legs at the back and on sculpted winged griffins in Hungarian oak with a bronze patina at the front. These griffins rest on an entablature in mahogany veneer with black patina molding. It is topped with a magnificent white marble top veined with original gray entirely hand-cut (see photo). Small repair formerly made (or maybe even original) on the left side of the board. Old probably Russian work from the beginning of the 19th century.
