Description

This side glass supported by a small foot is octagonal. In crystal, it is deeply carved and chiseled at the wheel of a wooded landscape where on one side is a deer, the head erect and on the other a hare. The work of great quality is to be compared to Karl Pfohl (1826-1894) artist from Bohemia known for the depth and relief of his works and who realized many hunting scenes.
From the second half of the nineteenth century this glass is in a good state of conservation, it is nevertheless necessary to point out one or two tiny little marks on the foot.
Height 17 cm.
