Description

Beautiful oil on panel dating from the 19th century. This signed work, whose artist remains a mystery, depicts a sailboat sailing on a rough sea. The wind seems powerful and the boats in the background also seem to be carried away on the waves. In the distance, a lighthouse accompanied by houses reminds of the proximity of the port. This painting is set in a carved and molded gilded wood frame. It is richly decorated with foliage around its edge and garlands with stylized motifs. Illustrating the wild beauty of the ocean, you will be captivated by the impression of movement that emerges from this work.
