Description

This lovely shuttle-shaped ring is centered with a mother-of-pearl plaque, it is surrounded by four amethysts alternating with four small white stones. Its baroque spirit evokes the Renaissance, the stones and mother-of-pearl are set in silver, the support and the ring are in gold, its marquise shape is flattering for the hand it extends. It dates from the middle of the 19th century and its origin is probably Austro-Hungarian. One of the amethysts is darker and we believe it may have been replaced. A slight deformation of the ring should be noted. 19th century period. Finger size 56.
