Description

Patinated bronze sculpture representing a Bacchante (or Menadee in Greek mythology), that is to say a companion of Bacchus. The girl is depicted in a dynamic pose, holding an instrument, a cup and, of course, her most characteristic attribute - the grape. At his feet is an overturned amphora, perhaps a symbol of a feast that has already passed. The sculpture was created with great attention to detail.

Patinated bronze.

France, 19th century.

Height 33.5 cm.

Very good state of conservation, small scratches
