France, 1960s, very pretty and atypical terracotta sculpture in Africanist style depicting a female character represented standing, hands resting on her stomach. Atypical creation of very good quality with timeless aesthetic qualities. No signature but necessarily the work of a talented sculptor.

Height 40.5 cm. The scale indicator in the last photograph is a small model of a lighter from a brand known to everyone. Good condition except for slight normal wear and possible restoration or cooking removal that is almost invisible and has no impact on aesthetics.
