Description

very pretty exceptional piece of furniture, this credenza rests on twisted columns which support the top of the piece of furniture: its recessed body has a tarbernacle door with a sculpted drawer below, an evangelical character finely sculpted over the entire upper part of this credence At first glance, we are struck by the ornamental finesse of this Italian Renaissance gem from the Genoa region of northern Italy, obviously shaped by a talented sculptor, with exceptional workmanship, the lower part and more before that the upper part which is from the high and from the 17th century.
