Group of Lionesses in spelter with nuanced patina of brown, bronze and golden colors. This figurative work represents two felines, with powerful bodies, advancing at a walking pace. The first lioness, leading the way, looks attentively in front of her, while the second animal, more relaxed, laps. This set rests on a rectangular base in black marble veneered with Algerian onyx. This refined and poetic work from the French school will appeal to lovers of the queen of animals.  Period: 1940 Excellent condition.
